DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Harold B. Miller House is located on the northeast side of Fairview Road approximately .4 mile northwest of Wilson-Corunna Road. It is situated on a dirt lane .3 mile from the road with its facade oriented to the south.

This house is a two story, frame building on a foundation of large, hollow bricks. Its basic configuration is a three bay by three bay square plan with a pyramidal roof and both facade and rear porches. The building is set into a hill so that the basement is on ground level at the rear and unexposed at the front of the house. The facade has a symmetrical, center door arrangement while the other elevations have irregularly spaced openings.

One over one sash windows light the building on all elevations but the first floor facade. These facade windows are wider than the others and have the upper quarter filled with a leaded glass panel in a hexagon and diamond design. (see neg. frame 30 A)

The roof has a chimney located at the peak and a more recent brick stove flue chimney on its south face. Standing seam metal covers the roof and chimney. The rafter ends are left exposed and are notched on the ends.

The facade porch extends the full length of the house on a hollow brick and concrete foundation. Four square posts support its hipped roof. The rear porch, also full length, shelters both the basement and first floor levels. The basement level has a concrete slab foundation and four replaced square posts supporting the floor above. The hipped roof of the first floor level is supported by four, paneled, square columns that reach from the railing to the cornice line. An open, straight run stairway provides access between the two levels. Both facade and rear porches have the same notched rafter ends as on the roof of the building.

West of the house is a frame, gable-roofed outbuilding with weatherboard siding and a coursed stone foundation. To the northeast is a frame, gable-roofed shed and further north is a deteriorated balloon frame and weatherboard outbuilding. A poured concrete foundation is located to the south.
